What are the reasons that I can be disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits? <sup>[1]</sup>

Some of the most common reasons for disqualification from receipt of benefits are:

- Quitting a job voluntarily without good cause connected with work.
  - Being discharged/fired from work for just cause.
  - Refusing an offer of suitable work for which the claimant is reasonably suited.
  - Refusing a referral to a suitable job opportunity offered by the State employment service.
